He was employed in the yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Pittsburg.

Last Tuesday afternoon his brother David, who lives at Clark McGovern's, received a telegram stating that Sherman was badly hurt. The next day a telegram came stating that he was dead and that his remains were being brought home.

About 1 o'clock Tuesday, Sherman was crossing the tracks in the yard, carrying a hoisting jack on his shoulder. This prevented his seeing a rapidly approaching engine, which struck him, knocked him forward, and ran over him cutting off close to his body his right arm and right leg, and inflicting an ugly wound in his head. His brother-in-law, Harry Locke, was but a few feet from him, and came at once to his assistance. He was removed to the hospital, and lived about four hours.

The deceased was an intelligent and industrious young man, and is well remembered as a student in the Summer Normals conducted by the Editor during the years from 1885 to 1889. Among the schoolmates from the upper end of the county at that time were Dr. John R. Hunter, John H. Miller, Esq., Prof. Ed. Bernhardt, Rev. Harry Newman, and Prof. Sherman Deavor. As a student, he was courteous and industrious, and in every way a good student.

During the past five years he has been a consistent member of the Center M. E. church.

His many firiends extend heartfelt sympathy to his grief-stricken parents, brothers and sisters, and to the young lady who was soon to become his hapENTER

The subject of this notice, a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Porter Anderson, of Taylor township, was born a little more than thirty-four years ago, and his remains were interred at Centre-church in that township last Friday.

He was employed in the yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Pittsburg.

Last Tuesday afternoon his brother David, who lives at Clark McGovern's, received a telegram stating that Sherman was badly hurt. The next day a telegram came stating that he was dead and that his remains were being brought home.

About 1 o'clock Tuesday, Sherman was crossing the tracks in the yard, carrying a hoisting jack on his shoulder. This prevented his seeing a rapidly approaching engine, which struck him, knocked him forward, and ran over him cutting off close to his body his right arm and right leg, and inflicting an ugly wound in his head. His brother-in-law, Harry Locke, was but a few feet from him, and came at once to his assistance. He was removed to the hospital, and lived about four hours.

The deceased was an intelligent and industrious young man, and is well remembered as a student in the Summer Normals conducted by the Editor during the years from 1885 to 1889. Among the schoolmates from the upper end of the county at that time were Dr. John R. Hunter, John H. Miller, Esq., Prof. Ed. Bernhardt, Rev. Harry Newman, and Prof. Sherman Deavor. As a student, he was courteous and industrious, and in every way a good student.

During the past five years he has been a consistent member of the Center M. F. Ghurch.

a-23 gar. 19

Centre Cementar